

$25 Be Rewarded™ Cervical Cancer Screening

Preventive screening for cervical cancer with the right test at the right time can find abnormal cells so they can be treated before they turn into cancer (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention: www.cdc.gov/cancer/cervical/).

Early detection is key

Cervical cancer screening can be completed by your health care provider during your preventive care exam, starting as early as 21 years old. The Pap test (or Pap smear) and the human papilloma virus (HPV) test are the screenings generally used for testing. The Pap test looks for changes in the cells on the cervix, while the HPV test looks for the virus that can cause the changes in the cell. If a pre-cancerous condition is found, it can be treated, stopping cervical cancer before it starts to develop.

If you are between the ages of 21 to 64, talk to your health care provider about getting screened.
